

MAKES QUINCY
GIRL FOR BRIDECharles S. Long of This City
Married at Kittery This Morning.A very pretty home wedding took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs.
Robert H. Stanley of Dame street,
when Miss Virginia Margaret McKenna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mc-Kenna of West Quincy, Mass., became the bride of Charles Sinclair Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. Long of Portsmouth.The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Dennis J. O'Brien of South-wick, Me., in the presence of the immediate families. The bridesmaid was Miss Catharine McKenna, of West Quincy, sister of the bride, and the best man was John S. Long, brother of the groom.The bride was attired in her traveling dress, which was of plum colored satin broadcloth, waist of white silk lotion over white silk, with picture t to match the suit. She carried a bouquet of white roses.The bridesmaid's dress was white net over yellow messaline, her bouquet being chrysanthemums.Following the ceremony a short internal reception was held and a wedding breakfast was served for which Frank Leary of Portsmouth entered.
The menu was: Chicken salad, lobster tail, cold ham, Parker house rolls, olives, harlequin ice cream, sorted cake, fruit and coffee.Each guest was presented a slice of wedding cake. When the bride's cake was cut the favors fell as follows: Ring
Mrs. Susie Edwards; time to Miss Therese McKenna; thimble to Daniel well, button to Miss Gertrude Long.
Mr. and Mrs. Long left Portsmouth on the 10.55 train for a wedding trip to Newport, R. I. Upon their return to Portsmouth, they will make their home at the present at 183 Summer street.
The bride and groom have hosts of ends both in Kittery and in this city, so wish them many years of happiness in their new relations.30,000 RAILROAD MEN ARE HELPEDAnnouncement of Award by Board of Arbitration Shows Fifty-Two Eastern Railroads are AffectedWashington, Nov. 24.—Thirty thousand locomotive engineers on fifty-two eastern railroads gain a partial victory in their demand for more wages, under the award announced today by the board of arbitration.
In its decision, however, the board holds that the public, which had more at stake than either engineers or railroads, and the report emphasises the necessity to safeguard the public against a possibility of a future strike, whose consequences it depicts in sombre vein."It would be difficult to exaggerate the seriousness of such a calamity," reads the report. It is safe to say that the large cities of the East would find their supply of many articles of food exhausted within a week. Of so important a commodity as milk, they would have no more than a days supply. If a strike of this character lasted only for a single week, the suffering would be beyond our power of description. The interests of the public so far exceed those of the parties to the controversy, as to render the former paramount. To this paramount interest both the railroad operators and the employees should submit.To place such a strike beyond the realms of possibility, the board advocates the creation of federal and state commissions. These commissions the board suggests, should be vested with practically the same powers over organized labor as public utilities commissions now exercise over quasi public corporations.

"It is the belief of the board" continues the decision "that in the last analysis then only solution is to qualify the principle of the free contract in the railroad service."From this suggestion P. H. Morrissey, the representative of the engineers on the board dissents.While the award increases wages on some railroads and for some classes of service, it holds that a general increase on all roads is not warranted. The award dates back to May 1 last and will hold for one year from that date. Mr. Morrissey, representing the engineers, has already indicated doubt as to its renewal. In the past, with several notable exceptions, the contracts between the roads and the engineers have been renewed annually.The attitude of the railroads as outlined in a statement today by President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, who represents the railroads on arbitration, is likewise indefinite as to the future."My acceptance of the award as a whole does not signify my approval of all findings in detail," said President Willard. He added that although the award is not such as the railroads had hoped for, not such as they felt justified by the facts they now accept without question the conclusion which was reached.The members of the board of arbitration were appointed by the chief justice of the supreme court of the United States; the United States commissioner of labor, and the pres-

FEAR HE WAS DROWNED.

Eliot Man Missing Since Friday—Was Fishing in Great Bay.Calvin Brooks, aged 50 years, of South Eliot, is missing and there is much fear among his relatives as to his disappearance. Brooks has been gone since Friday of last week. On that date he left home in a Swampscott dory, saying he was to fish for eels back of Frankfort Island in Great Bay. Since that time Brooks has not been seen, neither has the boat in which he was supposed to fish been located.Brooks was unmarried and for the past ten years has been employed on the Coleman farm. He was well acquainted with the river and Great Bay and his relatives cannot account for his complete disappearance.

WIND DID DAMAGE.

Blows Down Fence and Damages Roof of Coal Pocket.During the storm on Sunday the strong wind did considerable damage at the coal docks of the Consolidated Coal company. The fence in front of the coaling plant on Market street was blown into the street and thirty feet of the tarred paper on the roof of the coal pocket lifted. A large sign of the Atlantic Shore Line railway on the former Gray & Prime property at the foot of Market street was stripped from the poles and much other damage occurred about the docks.

FLAG RANKSecretary Meyer Calls Attention to the Fact that We are Shy of Admirals and Vice AdmiralsWashington, Nov. 25.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer, in an interview, calls attention to the necessity that the subject of admirals and vice admirals for a properly administered fleet should receive immediate attention from Congress. No provision is now made for any except the lowest grade in flag rank—that of rear admiral. The recognized grades, in order are admiral of the fleet, admiral, vice-admiral, rear admiral."A battle fleet," says the secretary,
"should be commanded by an admiral;
vice admirals should command squadrons; rear admirals should command divisions. Our great battle fleet is commanded by a rear admiral, with four other rear admirals under his orders. This violates the principle of rank, which is that each separate degree of duty and authority, all depending on the other, requires a separate rank. It is not a question of our naval officers, as individuals, being placed in inferior positions when they meet the fleets of other nations. It is that in the eyes of other nations we put ourselves in the position of an inferior.""History has shown that a proper organization of an army or a navy requires various grades. The fleets are much larger today, with divisions and subdivisions, and there is needed, for proper organization, admirals, vice admirals, and rear admirals, just as other nations have them. Nineteen nations have ranking naval officers above that of rear admiral."We have more vessels in commission than most of the nations giving higher rank to their officers; yet when our fleets enter foreign waters our naval officers are compelled to yield precedence to ranking officers of smaller nations. This is not an indignity to the man so much as to the United States. The fact that the grades of admiral and vice admiral do not exist in our navy is inconsistent with the size of our fleet and with the dignity of this country. When it is realized that nineteen of the navies of the world include at least vice admirals—nine of them admirals—and Japan, Germany and England admirals of the fleet in addition, it is felt that this matter should be corrected in our service by appropriate legislation."The following list of the flag officers of all nations shows that in any combined operations or international functions where naval forces are present the United States would take the lowest place in rank.

Shot By His Brother.George Dow, aged 17, residing at No.
153 Market street, was accidentally shot on Sunday by his younger brother, John Dow, who was handling a 22-caliber rifle. It is the same old story—the young man didn't know that the gun was loaded and when he pulled the trigger the gun went off and the bullet entered the calf of the left leg just below the knee, passing through and entering the calf of the right leg where it became embedded. Dr. Eugene B.
Kasman was called, extracted the bullet and dressed the young man's wounds.The victim will be obliged to remain quiet for a week or more, but no serious results are anticipated from the wound.The shooting of young Dow again calls attention to the fact that too many young boys are allowed to have fire arms and grow careless in the handling of the same.

FIFTY KILLED IN A PANIC

Panic in Moving Picture
House in Bilbao, Spain,
Yesterday

Bilbao, Spain, Nov. 24.—A terrible panic was caused this afternoon by the cry of fire at a moving picture show here. About fifty children and others were killed. Only one woman up to a late hour last night had been found among the dead. The number of injured is not known as most of them were taken to their homes by friends.

The scene of the accident was a large circus, which had been converted into a continuous cinematograph show. As the price of admission was only 2 cents the building was crowded to its utmost capacity, for the most part with women and children.

The operator of the machine lost his nerve when the film ignited and screamed "fire." He was able to extinguish the flames himself without difficulty, but the effect of his cry upon the audience was instantaneous. Almost everyone within the building sprang up. The police and attendants were powerless to control the panic-stricken people and were swept away by the surging mass which sought to fight a way to the exits. Scores were knocked down and trampled upon and many were rushed to death in the passages from the galleries and to the streets.

The news of the disaster brought large crowds who gathered in a frenzied manner outside the building, and the authorities had great difficulty in carrying on the work of rescue and extinguishing the dead and injured from the piles of wrecked seats.

The manager and other employees have been arrested, and are held pending an inquiry.

Penn and Connell Elevens Ready To Play Annual Gridiron Game

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—The football elevens of Cornell and Pennsylvania are ready for their annual Thanksgiving day gridiron scrap here on Franklin field. This will be the twentieth meeting of the two colleges on the football field. Out of the nineteen games played Cornell has won one battle. In 1901 Cornell defeated Penn by a score of 24 to 6. In 1906 the two elevens played a 9 to 9 game. It seems that, no matter how strong a team Cornell sends here to tackle Penn, the Red and Blue men take them into camp. This season both teams have made a poor showing. In the game with Michigan recently Penn put up a remarkable game. With the score 20 to 0 against them after the first half the Red and Blue men won in the second half by some wonderful playing. The score at the end was 27 to 21 in favor of Penn. Picture shows scene in Michigan-Penn game. Mercer of Penn making an end run. The probable lineup of the two elevens will be:

Pennsylvania—Young, left end; Wilson, left tackle; MacNaughton, left guard; Simpson, center; Greene, right guard; Dillon, right tackle; Jourdet, right end; W. Craig, quarterback; Minds, left halfback; Harrington, right halfback; Mercer, fullback. Cornell—Rees, left end; Guyer, left tackle; Mann, left guard; J. S. Whyte, center; Champaign, right guard; Nash, right tackle; O'Hearn, right end; Taber, quarterback; O'Connor, left halfback; Bennett, right halfback; Hill, fullback.

CONCORD LETTER

Concord, Nov. 25.—The governor and council met in this city last week and canvassed the votes cast for presidential electors, subsequently proclaiming the success of the Wilson and Marshall ticket, the first democratic electors chosen in New Hampshire since General Franklin Pierce got the vote of his own state as well as that of the rest of the nation for the office of chief executive in 1852. This leaves Vermont the only state which always has chosen republican presidential electors, from Fremont to Taft. Votes cast for other officers also were canvassed in accordance with law, and proclamation made of the results and of the adoption and rejection of the proposed amendments to the constitution submitted to the people for ratification.

No communication was made to the supreme court in reference to the possible effect upon the election of governor of the adoption of the amendment providing for plurality instead of majority choices for that office; and it seems to be settled that nothing will happen in this regard prior to the assembling of the legislature on the first day in January, 1913.

The governor and council have re-appointed Col. Richard M. Scammon of Stratham as bank commissioner; and Henry K. W. Scott as warden and Rev. Whitman S. Bassett as chaplain of the state prison; which institution the governor and council visited last week for the purpose of inspecting the new workshop there.

There are still quite a few appointments which it is within the power of this governor and council to make before their administration ends; and the matter of the complaints against the Portsmouth and Manchester police commissions is still in the air.

Returns of campaign expenditures made as required by law and filed with the secretary of state are now pretty well in hand and it is estimated that their total reaches about $75,000, quite equally divided between the three principal parties in the election.

As to the legislative situation there is no change apparent to the public eye and the only sign that there is anything going on is the unusually large number of callers which some representatives-elect have been entertaining in the last few weeks. The editor of the Brown Book now has in hand a large percentage of information blanks returned to him by members of the next General Court and he finds in the lot two progressive-republicans, two progressive-democrats, two independents and two progressives; an arrangement of pairs that suggests Nach and the ark.

The uncertainty which attends the organization of both branches of the legislature has not hindered, but rather has stimulated the announcement of candidates for various offices within their gift. Earl C. Gordon, of Canaan, who has been the very popular assistant clerk of the state senate, asks for promotion to the clerkship in case the republicans control the upper house. His democratic opponent is A. Chester Clark of Concord, who was secretary of the recent constitutional convention. Thomas H. Madigan of Manchester, who was secretary of the convention of 1902, would like to be clerk of the house, while Harrie M. Young of the same city, the efficient clerk of the house for several sessions, is again the republican candidate. Public service commissioners Benton and Niles, while attending a national convention of such officers in Washington, took occasion to indicate to the department of justice the interest of New Hampshire in the rumored agreement between the New Haven and Grand Trunk systems; with what effect upon the government plans in the matter does not at this writing appear.

Occular evidence of the probability of some agreement between the two roads is furnished by a visit to the local freight yards which have been congested for a week with empty freight cars which the Boston and Maine is loaning to the Grand Trunk for use in handling the wheat harvest and which are now on their way west for that purpose.

Five wooden bridges along the main line of the Concord division have been replaced by bridges of steel construction the present season, and authority has been given for the replacement of more of the old structures next year.

Authority has been given for the running of heavier engines up to 74 tons over the Concord division, and a consolidation type of locomotive now running over the Connecticut river division to Westboro' will be used for the handling of freight as occasion requires.

The work of replacing the bridge at Dow with a steel structure to carry both the steam and electric tracks will be commenced early in the spring.

Plans are being made for a switch tower to govern the entrance of trains to the station and freight yard to be erected just above the bridge at Bridge Street.

Last week we had by Concord a great gathering of Mystic Shriners, the delegates to the annual diocesan convention of the Episcopal church in New Hampshire, the county commissioners of the state and the leaders in the state society opposed to the further extension of the suffrage to women. This week we have the Daughters of the American Revolution of the state.

We would like to have the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, in 1913, as we had them in 1892, but the understanding is that the vote of the national body at its session in Spokane, Washington, to come to New Hampshire, included Manchester as the city whose invitation was to be accepted.

The report that the litigation over the estate of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy was to cease is denied by counsel for the plaintiffs, Mrs. Eddy's sons, who say that the case is to be pushed vigorously in three courts, the United States court and the New Hampshire and Massachusetts state courts. The point to which they now are addressing themselves is that Christian Science is not a religion, nor a charity, but a money-making business from which private individuals get personal gain. H. C. PEARSON.

Prison Ship for Naughty Middies

Rumor is busy in navy circles that the old Spanish ship Reina Mercedes one of the trophies captured in the blockade at Santiago and rebuilt as a receiving ship at the Portsmouth navy yard, may be converted to a prison ship for the incarceration of midshipmen, as was the old custom. The ship to be known as the "Guard Boat."

FORERUNNER OF A GREAT STRIKE

Three Large Steel Plants May Be Forced to Shut Down.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24.—What is regarded as the forerunner of a great strike in the mills of the Steel Corporation started today when 800 more trainmen employed in the yards of the corporation plant walked out. At the Homestead and Edgar Thompson plants and the Carnegie furnaces about 1000 men are on strike, demanding an increase of 70 cents a day.

Officers of the steel company said today that the three big plants may be forced to shut down. This would put in idleness 20,000 men. The corporation is far behind in its orders. Nothing will be left undone to settle the trouble.

The men gathering in groups in the streets of Homestead and Duquesne, assert that they will force the company to accede to their demands, or start the biggest strike since the Homestead strike and riots of 1892.

Organizers for the industrial Workers of the world are active among the men, urging that they hold out and make possible a general strike, throughout the Pittsburgh district. National Organizer Thomas Flynn of the A. F. of L. has been in the Pittsburgh district most of the time since last July. "Big Bill" Haywood, leader of the I. W. W. has been here twice recently, directing his men who have been carrying the Socialist doctrine into the mills and factories.

LICENSE VOTE.

Few Changes Made by the New Hampshire Towns.

The returns received by the state board of license commissioners show little change in the amount of license and no license territory in New Hampshire as a result of the recent election, which the question was voted on in the towns. Eleven towns changed from license to no-license while ten changed from no-license to license.

In Hillsborough county two changed to no-license and two to license. In Merrimack county there was a gain of one town for license, Northfield going license for the first time. In Rockingham county one town went no-license for the first time, Kingston. Cheshire county shows one change each way. In Grafton county two changed to license and one to no-license. In Sullivan county Newport went back to license and Somers to the no license. Strafford shows one gain for license. In Carroll county one change each way. Coos shows the most change, two towns going from the yes to the no column while three towns changed to no.

The only town making the "no" experiment for the first time was Kingston, while Colebrook which has been license only once went back to the "no" column again. Five places went license for the first time. These were Franconstown, Grafton, Livermore, Northfield and Sandwich.

The towns which voted yes on the question are as follows: Allenstown, Alstead, Andover, Bennington, Cheshire, Deering, Derry, Epping, Errol, Franconstown, Grafton, Livermore, Marlow, Newmarket, Newport, Northfield, Northumberland, Nottingham, Pembroke, Rollinsford, Sandwich, Stewartstown, Walpole.

The full list of those changing from license to no-license is as follows: Alton, Colebrook, Eppingham, Goshen, Hillsborough, Kingston, Litchfield, Pittsburg, Somers, Wentworth's Location and Westmoreland.

Those changing to license from the no column are Bennington, Errol, Franconstown, Grafton, Livermore, Marlow, Newport, Northfield, Northumberland, and Sandwich.

Besides the twenty-three towns voting license at this election there are seven cities which voted license in 1910 and which do not vote again till 1914. These are Berlin, Concord, Dover, Manchester, Nashua, Portsmouth and Somersworth.

WANT COLUMBUS DAY.

K. of C. at Concord—Delegates to Work for Holiday.

Knights of Columbus from all parts of New Hampshire gathered at Concord on Sunday to meet the state officials of the order. The object of the meeting was to formulate plans for concerted action in the next session of the legislature to secure the enactment of the statutes of a bill providing for Oct. 12, Columbus Day, as a legal holiday. At present New Hampshire is the only state in the New England group where Columbus Day is not observed as a legal holiday.

The state officers were headed by State Deputy John B. Gray of Concord and Past State Deputy Dr. James B. Duffy of Keene, and the delegates came from the councils in Manchester, Nashua, Portsmouth, Dover, Keene, Concord, Newmarket, Berlin and Lancaster.

CROQUETTES

Sweet and Nutritious With COTTOLINE
to take Out the "Indigestion"

Croquettes are likely to be greasy—if made with lard. Cottolene croquettes are never greasy. Cottolene heats to about 100 degrees higher than butter or lard, without burning, and forms a crisp crust which prevents the absorption of fat.

Cottolene

is more healthful and economical than lard. It costs no more than lard. You use one-third less of Cottolene than of either butter or lard.

The use of Cottolene is indispensable to good cooking, good health and true economy. TRY THIS RECIPE:

CROQUETTES

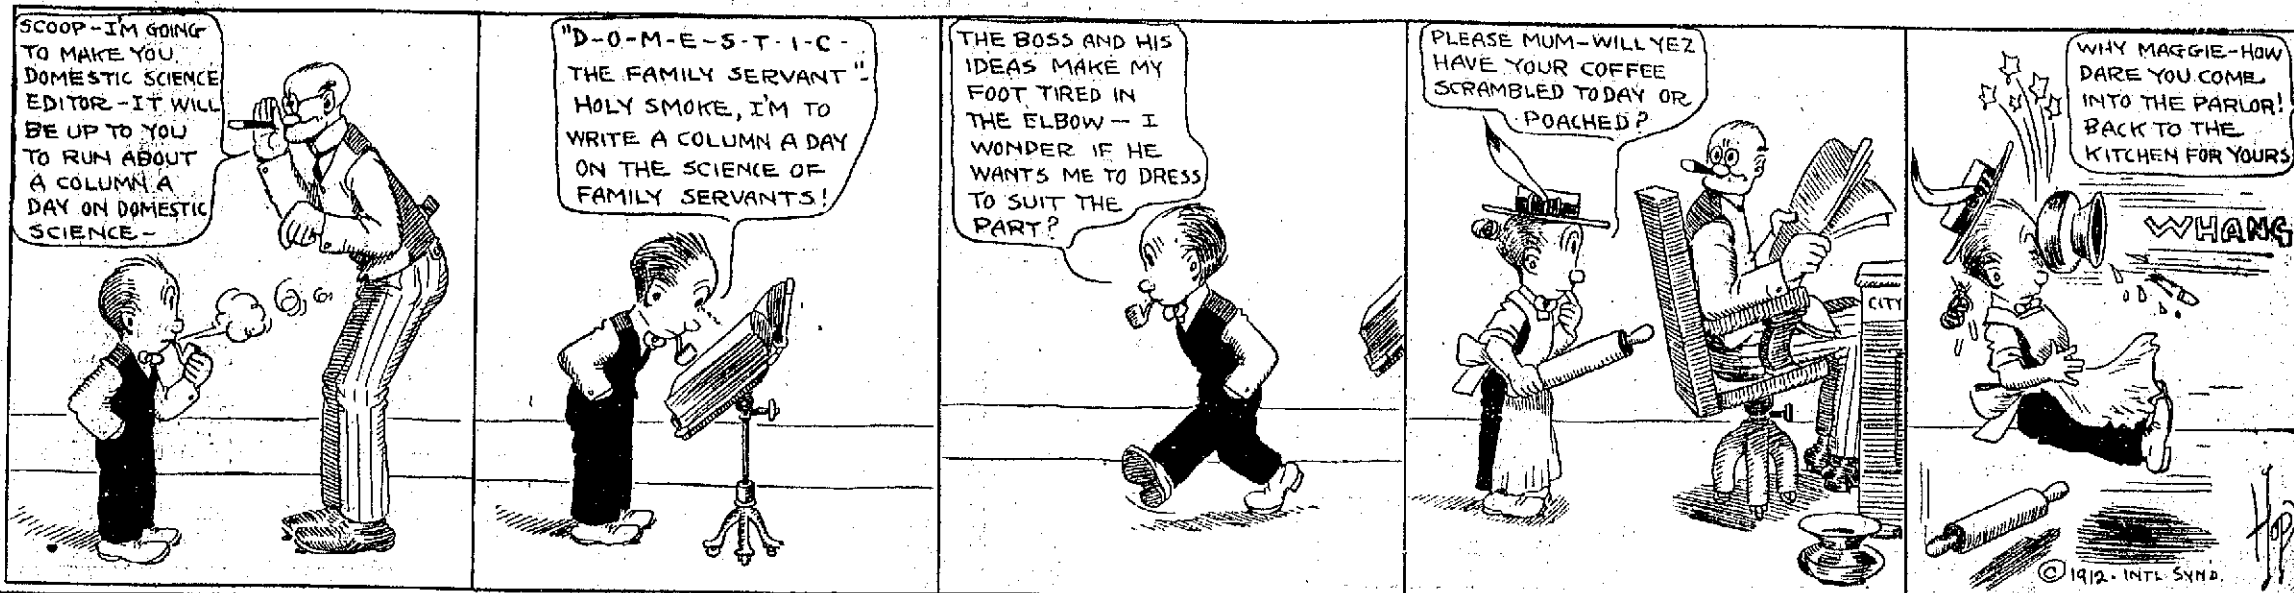

Chop fine any kind of cooked meat or fish. Moisten light meats with thick white sauce, equal amount, and dark meats with tomato or brown sauce made quite thick. Season with salt and pepper and onion juice if liked. When very cold, shape mixture into balls or cones; roll first in sifted bread crumbs, then beaten egg diluted with one tablespoon milk, then crumb again. Fry one minute in deep Cottolene. Drain on paper, and be sure the fat is hot for each frying. Serve plain or with sauce like that in the mixture, only thinner.

SAILORS DEFEAT CRACK ARMY TEAM IN FOOT BALL

San Francisco Team Win From Fort Williams of Portland--High School Win Close Game From Berwick Academy.

The football team, representing Fort Williams of Portland Harbor, which has the reputation of being one of the best army teams in New England, played the team from the U. S. S. San Francisco on Saturday afternoon at the play grounds, and went down to defeat by the score of 26 to 0. The sailors simply outplayed the soldiers in all departments of the game and backed with their greater weight, and the superior all around work of Wright, Wood and MacAvoy, they made easy work of it.

It was the best game played here this fall, and was witnessed by a large crowd, including a good delegation from Portland. The first period was hard fought with the soldiers holding the sailors and preventing a touchdown, although the play was in the Army territory the greater part of the time. In the second period the sailors got under way, and by working Wright from the line, and Wood, to rush the ball through the big holes made through Wright and Krouse they advanced the ball until Springfield was sent across for a touchdown. The goal was from a difficult angle and Quinn missed a good try.

In the first period of the second half the sailors rushed the ball at will and scored two touchdowns. Wood in both cases carrying the ball, and they scored another in the third when Cohen was thrown across for a touchdown. It was hard and fast football with many brilliant plays, the tackling of MacAvoy and Cohen being especially fine. Wright who played left tackle, is an old naval academy player, and he played a star game. He was especially brilliant in carrying the ball, and his skin tackle runs invariably netted from five to twenty yards. He was a tower of strength in the line and opened holes in his position that Wood often netted twenty yards through. Quinn played a snappy game at quarter, and made one or two brilliant tackles, while the whole line played a fine defensive game.

The soldiers showed flashes of brilliant work, and pulled off one of the best forward passes the writer has ever seen. It was over the line from Liwaska to Maxwell, the latter getting it on the run and advancing the ball thirty yards. This was followed by some good end runs, but a fumbled ball which Wright nailed and carried forty yards before he was pulled down ended their hope of scoring.

High School Defeat Berwick Academy

The high school football team added another victory on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Berwick Academy team, at Berwick in a hard fought game.

The Academy team played a much better game on their own grounds, than when in this city, and they held the locals scoreless, after the second period when Bruce, after the team had advanced the ball by steady rushes carried it over for a touchdown.

The High school boys made good work of the forward pass and pulled off several for long gains.

SUCCESSFUL JOB OF MOVING

The Call house which is being moved by Frank Ellis to a lot on the hospital field where it will be used for a Nurse's Home, on Saturday night was in front of the lot, and by Tuesday night at the latest it will be over the foundation. The small all still remains to be moved, but this is a small matter.

Mr. Ellis, the contractor, in speaking of the house said that it was one of the best he had ever moved. In its long journey across to the hospital it has been over some hard places, but not a timber has been cracked in any of the rooms.

When in place and ready for occupancy, the hospital will have a fine addition to that institution.

FUNERAL NOTICE

UNION SERVICE ON HOME MISSION

The Protestant churches of this city united on Sunday evening in a Home Mission Union Service at the Middle street Baptist church, and despite the storm there was a good sized congregation.

The service was the opening of the Home Mission week which is being carried on all through the country, and the subject of last evening was "The Task of Home Mission."

Rev. W. P. Stanley was the first to speak and his subject was "The Man from Everywhere." He was followed by Rev. L. L. Galther, and his subject was "The Far Flung Battle Line."

Dr. L. H. Thayer closed the services with an able sermon on "The Worth and Splendor of the Task." The combined choirs of the churches rendered a fine musical program.

POLE FIRE CAUSES A SHUT DOWN

One of the poles carrying the high tension wires of the Rockingham Light and Power Co., at the corner of Maplewood avenue and Denett street, caught fire on Sunday evening and the auto chemical was called out. The pole was burning briskly at the top and there was nothing the firemen could do, except to notify the company, and they had to shut off the power before it could be touched. Considerable damage was done to the pole, and the shut down for a time tied up the electric roads depending on that division of the power. The trouble was caused by the high wind which wore away some of the insulation.

HARD LUCK

Messrs. C. B. Hoyt, F. A. Robbins, and F. L. Knight returned on Saturday from the northern part of the state where they had been on a gunning trip. They report hard luck with mild weather and poor gunning conditions so that they did not catch a glimpse of a deer, that is not where they were reconnoitering, but Saturday afternoon while on the train, on their way home while passing Twin Mountain, they saw nine deer feeding in a field near the railroad track.

FORTS PARALYZED BY NORTHERN CLIMATE

Washington, Nov. 24—Many complaints have come to the war department from the commandants of northern seacoast forts that during the winter months snow and ice block their gun carriages, paralyzing practice work at their posts.

To remedy this the department has allotted $750 for an experimental cover on one of the guns at Fort Preble, Me., where the climate is severe. If this test is successful an appropriation will be asked for covering all guns in northern army posts, for which work it is estimated something like $75,000 will be required.

Portsmouth, N. H., Monday, November 25, 1912.

An Example.

The small percentage of the total vote which was cast at the election in this state upon the constitutional amendments is not amazing. Its size, less than 50 per cent. of the total vote, is but another bit of evidence, if more proof were needed, to show that the electorate as a whole will not express itself upon matters purely legislative in scope. Here was a case where the voters of the state were called upon to decide for themselves questions of more importance than would usually be brought to them under the sublimest system of the initiative and the referendum, and as has been shown by example again and again there was no general interest manifested. If the people of New Hampshire will not respond to their duty of voting when the fundamental law of the state is at stake, what can be expected, may we ask, of their votes upon such matters as a resolution "to abolish pickerel fishing through the ice in Squog pond during the months of July and August," which we are told was the title of a bill entered at a session of our general court some sessions since?

If it is possible to again assemble the Constitutional convention as proposed, and have the third amendment again submitted for the incoming legislature, to be voted on at next town meeting in the towns, and at a special election in the cities, let us so do. We have had a surfeit of elections during the past nine months, and another in prospect a few months hence will only add the dessert to a full meal. Meanwhile we haven't met any bull moosers pointing with pride to the outcome of our own little "referendum."—Nashua Telegraph.

The Boston Transcript says the Balkan war teaches us many lessons. To take these to heart some American commentators will have to give up the impression which they have formed, while watching the conflict, that the triumph of the allies is the success of suddenly inspired patriotism over an army regular in its organization and theoretically in sympathy with the modern military idea. To these observers it seems as if the armed men of the Balkan nations had sprung up in the night, and by the force and fury of their advance had overcome a system which had been relied upon to defeat them. The truth is quite the opposite: The armies of the allies are in every sense of the term armies; they are not crowds of armed men suddenly inspired to attack the Turks, and operating under improvised leadership. The forces of Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece are quite as much the embodiments of the up-to-date scheme of military organization of nations as are the defeated Turks. They bear no resemblance to the Minute Men of our revolution, and still less to the Boers who so well held the power of Great Britain at bay. The lesson to be learned is that if a nation is to be ready to exert all its power in war, it must give years of training to its fighting material in peace. In our remoteness from the old world we have not been called upon to maintain either a large standing army or large, systematically organized reserves. For how much longer we shall enjoy this agreeable immunity no one can say, but certainly no nation of our size is so utterly unprepared for the advent of war.

The American Federation of Labor has withdrawn its formidable disapproval of the Boy Scout movement, says the Chicago Post. This means that the federation is convinced that the Boy Scouts, as organized and directed in this country, are not militaristic. It is true that foolish leaders here and there have started out to drill the boys and to instill a militaristic point of view, but the great mass of directors seem to have been far more interested in giving the boys a knowledge of woodcraft and the technique of camping than they have been in the manual of arms. And the repeated statements of those most responsible for the movement that they were trying to give American boys good bodies, trained intelligence, self-reliant wills and an appreciation of our vanishing frontier has at last carried the weight it should have. Now the socialists revise their hasty condemnation of the Boy Scouts, the working class youngsters may begin to reap the advantages which the movement has to offer them.

The Philadelphia Press says it is announced that Mr. Wilson contemplates making the vice presidency under his administration an integral part of the government. He will have Mr. Marshall sit in his cabinet in an advisory capacity. The newly elected chief magistrate apparently cherishes a number of illusions which experience will dissipate. His conversion of a vice president into a cabinet minister, like the other plan ascribed to him of keeping open door to all comers, will doubtless fall of its own weight. New Presidents find the executive machine and its duties ready-made, and whatever they may intend they are seldom able to change them greatly.

The Springfield Republican makes the timely suggestion that in estimating losses in battle it is well to remember that the enemy always loses at least four or five times as many men as the side that sends the news.

Current Comment.

Mr. Bryan—London, Washington
If the London cable referring to the rumor connecting Mr. Bryan's name with the ambassadorship to Great Britain had been prepared with the express purpose of discouraging the suggestion it could not have hit the mark more accurately.

Doubtless Mr. Bryan would find the leaders of the liberal party good company. He and Mr. Lloyd George would hit it off well together. He and Mr. Churchill in a confab would agree about many things. Even he and Mr. Asquith, the one warm and rhetorical, the other cool, and precise, could use the same spectacles. But, as the American Ambassador Mr. Bryan would not be accredited to a political party. As much as he might admire the liberal leaders and would be most improper for him to make his feelings known any way. And he would have to be on his guard against temptations to put in his oar. He would constantly remember Sackville-West, who in 1888 was balked by campaign tricksters and sent packing out of this country for expressing in a letter intended to be private, a preference for the democratic as against the republican party.

No, if Mr. Bryan is to be associated officially with the Wilson administration it should be done here at home. If he is to advise Mr. Wilson it should be at close range. A seat at the cabinet table would suit best. The Star had the honor of first suggesting him for the State Department, and it sees no reason to withdraw the nomination. The man who made McGregor should sit next to McGregor, whose place is at the head of the table.

Clay made John Quincy Adams President and served him as Secretary of State. It was the Blaine influence that gave Garfield the nomination over Grant in 1880 and Blaine became Secretary of State. Eight years later it was the Blaine influence that nominated Harrison, and again Blaine entered the state department. Clay and Adams got along excellently together. Blaine and Garfield started off well, and might have continued on good terms, as Blaine's was the stronger of the two personalities. Blaine and Harrison as was inevitable, quarreled. Harrison was not bossable by any human being.

There would of course be a risk in an intimate official association between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wilson, and particularly as it is Bryanism that Mr. Wilson will be expected by Mr. Bryan to put in operation. Mr. Bryan might want to boss the job and Mr. Wilson might object. Each has a boss nature. But in big politics risks have to be taken. "Nothing Risked Nothing Gained." The theories and phrases of the race track and the card table often apply to politics. In the cabinet Mr. Bryan might be less troublesome to Mr. Wilson than out of it.—Washington Star.

Mr. Taft and Congress

At the coming session congress may transact only the routine business. There is a good deal of that and the session is limited to only 3 months. The supply bills carry large amounts of money, cover many different subjects, and provoke much debate. And the government must have its rations.

This leads to the report that no response will be made by congress to any recommendations, the president may make in his annual or special messages touching matters outside the routine. This is stated will be referred and pigeon-holed, and second the meaning of the recent election.

The argument on the second head is that the President and his party have been served with notice to retire. Their course has been condemned and the course of their designated successors outlined, and as Mr. Wilson is to take office in March and will call the new congress together in April the delay about business outside the routine will be short and inconsequential. Hence the proposition to pass up all but routine business to the new order of things beginning March 4.

At the same time the President's duty is very plain. His responsibilities run with his term, and that does not expire until his successor qualifies. The message he will send in next month therefore should contain as doubtless it will his views about such questions as he thinks

Latest Photo of Vincent Astor, Recently Come Into $100,000,000

Copyright, 1912, by Marceau, New York.

William Vincent Astor, son of the late John Jacob Astor, who became of age on Nov. 15, has the distinction of not only being the wealthiest young man in the world, but also of being the most youthful head of a great family. His inheritance, estimated at from seventy-five to a hundred millions, is the largest in recorded history. It is highly improbable that old Croesus himself could have left any such amount to his successor. Mr. Astor is fond of yachting and automobiling, and a Newport magistrate once reprimanded him for "furious driving" through the streets.

the present congress should handle.

The case may be stated even more strongly. If the present congress were republican in both branches, it would be in order for it in cooperation with the President to legislate outside the routine this winter, notwithstanding the result recorded on the 4th instant. The commission of a congress runs for two years as a President's for four and its power and responsibility continue to the last day.

If the President's last message should prove to be no more, it will answer the end of a comparison or contrast with his successor's first. What he may say on such subjects as are now before the country will proceed by only a few months. Mr. Wilson's recommendations or failure to recommend, and in that way we shall get a line at once on a portion of the program of the new administration.

It is not for the President to inquire what his opponents in this congress are likely to do or threatening to do. They will be responsible for their courses as he will be for his. If they decide to ignore his recommendations, and augment by that which Mr. Wilson's opportunity they will be within their province, though if by such a course they delay legislation of pressing value they will not be serving the best interests of their party or the country.—Washington Star.

HIPPODROME HAPPENINGS.

There was developed a very nice romantic love affair at the New York Hippodrome last week. Miss May Carlisle will wed Ernest Sloan on Wednesday, Nov. 27, at St. Michael's Episcopal church at 11 a. m. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. John P. Peters. After the ceremony the bridal couple will sail for Bermuda for an extended honeymoon. Mr. Sloan is one of the New York harbor pilots who bring the ocean liners into dockage from Sandy Hook. When they return they will live in Ridgewood, N. J. After the matinee on Friday the girl companions and actresses in the huge production of "Under Many Flags" at the Hippodrome gave Miss Carlisle a farewell luncheon.

There are many paradoxes in life and not a few of them in the great stage world. One of the most striking paradoxes occurs twice a day at the Hippodrome where the new spectacle of "Under Many Flags" is being produced. When the performance begins the curtain is rung down and when the spectacle is over the curtain is rung up. The twin deer which were born in the Hippodrome about a month ago will have a christening this week. At the present time all the 1200 members of the huge production of "Under Many Flags" are selecting names for the bright eyed little fauns.

MORE DYNAMITE IN LOS ANGELES

Finding of Three Lots of Explosive Causes Uneasy Feeling.

Los Angeles, Nov. 24.—As three dynamite caches have been found in and about the city since the scare at the police station, the police are in a panic mood and the least noise as of an explosion makes everybody jump.

Chief of Police Sebastian received a message yesterday stating that an infernal machine in the form of a clock work contrivance, set to explode at 4:10 o'clock, had been found in the office of Judge J. W. McKinley, chief counsel of the Pacific Electric.

Chief Sebastian immediately detailed two officers, who went to Judge McKinley and investigated. A few moments later they hastily departed without giving any reason. Officers of the central police station left yesterday with Carl Riedelbach, alias Carl Warr, for Decies, a small station near Bloomington, to locate the dynamite cache of which the prisoner had told the police. All were heavily armed and extra shotguns were placed in the automobile for any emergency that might possibly arise.

Central station officers were given another shock yesterday when an individual too wrought up to think to give his name telephoned headquarters that he had found 42 sticks of high explosives by accidentally stepping upon them while walking near Elysian Park.

The dynamite was in a small hole on the outskirts of Elysian Park. It had been covered by an inch of loose earth. The condition of the earth showed that the explosive had not been buried more than 36 hours.

SEMI-MONTHLY PAY

Would Wipe Some of Existing Evils of the Navy.

Several of the ships that have been at the Portsmouth yard of late are understood to have made payments (wice a month). This is considered a good plan, by the enlisted men, and not a few of the officers who believe that all enlisted men at all naval stations should not be kept waiting a month for their money.

Men of the service who have interested themselves in this matter do not hesitate to say that under such an arrangement the scheme would be a material benefit to the service in general. They are of the opinion that it would have a tendency to wipe out the credit evil which exists to a large extent in the service and the oversteering of leave when a man has a pocket full of money.

There are many other things that could be remedied should the department decide to distribute the money to the boys of Uncle Sam with some

By a Portsmouth Resident

The following has more interest for Portsmouth residents than it otherwise would have because Mr. Dunlap is one of ourselves, a citizen of Portsmouth. If to prove of assistance to but one person in Portsmouth, it will have been well worth the telling.

Albert Dunlap, retired, 36 N. School St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I suffered from kidney disease, brought on I believe by the hardships I endured while in the army. Some years ago my complaint became much worse and there was a constant pain in the small of my back that made me miserable. It was difficult for me to get about and if I stooped or moved suddenly, sharp twinges darted through my body. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a cure for such troubles, I decided to try them and procured a box at Philbrick's Drug Store. After using about half the contents, I could see an improvement and almost before I realized it, the pains in my back disappeared. I have had no trouble to speak of from my kidneys since. Occasionally when I have taken a slight cold or over-worked, my back has become weak, but at such times a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills have always benefited me."

FIRE AMONG THE INSANE

There Was Great Excitement at a Long Island Institution on Sunday

New York, Nov. 24.—Hundreds of insane and feeble minded persons of all ages and both sexes in a group of institutions at Amity, L. I., for the mentally afflicted, were thrown into great excitement by a fire which raged there today. One male inmate was burned to death, two frame buildings of the group were destroyed, and while the fire threatened other buildings several hundred inmates were led out in confusion.

Fire believed to have started from a defective light wire in the Brunswick Home for the Idiotic and Feeble Minded threatened sixty patients, fifteen of whom were bedridden. Attendants managed to get all of the patients out before the fire had caught them, but Fritz Monrady, an insane patient 30 years old, after he had been rescued, eluded the guards and ran back into the building to save a pet canary. The flames were then at their height and he was not seen again. His charred body was found in the ruins.

The boys' cottage connected with the home, in which there were about fifteen insane patients, was also destroyed. These patients and 600 others in several other buildings which caught fire several times, were led into the open. Notwithstanding the great excitement which prevailed guards and volunteers kept them all in check.

Superintendent C. L. Markham of the home said that as far as he could ascertain all the patients with the exception of Monrady were saved.

Louison's hall and the Long Island home, both for the care of the insane and located near the Brunswick home, caught fire several times from the sparks of the burning buildings, but the bucket brigades kept the flames from doing much damage. The patients in these two institutions were not taken out.

EUROPE IS UNEASY OVER WAR RUMORS

Troops of Russia, Austria and Germany Being Mobilized--Stock Market Effectuated.

London, Nov. 23.—Europe's situation is regarded as the most fraught with peril for all Europe since the Balkan war began. Tomorrow, diplomats believe will be a critical day. Keenest interest was aroused in London by accounts in the evening newspapers of the details of reported extensive continental mobilization, particularly the activity of Austria, Germany and Russia. Although absence of definite details precludes the precise possibilities, much nervousness was displayed over the warlike precautions being taken, thereby casting the shadow of the dreaded eventually a general European war.

The evening Press tried to minimize the alarm which the news may cause, quoting the assurances given by the ambassadors. But none of the apparent confidence there is a vigilant anxiety.

News that the Albanian chiefs had declared their country independent, said that Prince Shkupi, who is said to have been chosen King of Albania, has left for Bucharest, came in after the evening papers had been published.

There is a general tendency to disregard official denials from the continental capitals of reports about mobilization.

The Press estimates that the number of men being mobilized by Russia alone is 1,200,000.

Vienna Depressed, Santa Claus Said.

Messages from Vienna report that the military authorities there consider the situation very grave, and the establishing of a censorship as exceedingly significant. Scarcely a family in Vienna has not some friend or relative called into active service. Nothing else is being discussed.

The women are buying no flannel, ordering no dresses. Complaints of dullness in business are heard everywhere. Ordinarily at this season, owing to the proximity of Christmas, trade would be at its height, but many clerks and workmen are being dismissed.

The chief interest naturally centres around Berlin, the telegrams announcing the sudden arrival there of field marshal, Schemm, the chief of the Austrian general staff, who had in long conference with Lieut. Gen. Von Moltke, the chief of the German staff.

Great significance is also attached to the known fact that Emperor William, and the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, Archduke Francis, Ferdinand, were together today at a court hunt at Springs. Furthermore a sinister omen was observed in the famine of railroad freight cars in the Rhenish Westphalian industrial region, owing to their being held back for the transport of troops to the Russian front.

Beatings of the War Pulse
Saturday being a short day on the stock exchange, the fluctuations were not violent, the market opening with an inclination to be more confident, believing that the relations of Austria and Serbia were less strained, and also that Bulgaria was likely to offer Turkey better terms. But the news that Russia was mobilizing, accompanied with selling orders from Berlin and Paris, caused a relapse, though toward the close there was a slight improvement.

EXETER LETTER

A timely subject for debate at the next meeting of the Golden Branch one of the literary societies of the Phillips Exeter academy Tuesday evening will be "Should Exeter Adopt a System in Football." This has been the subject of much discussion in school and outside for the years that the system has been used at the local school.

The opinion is very evenly divided, it will be shown in the debate by the youthful orators, but the majority appear to be in the negative. True it is that the football games have been going against Exeter yearly, but not many think it is the system of the Massachusetts school that is turning the trick. Exeter differs but very little in the system of developing the eleven, and during the season there have been several plays taken from the class eleven for his regular squad with good results. A fact about the only difference between the two schools appears to be the shortening of the schedule at Andover, with not so many teams to be played, both in football and in base ball.

The disputants at the debate are E. E. Piper, '12, of Providence, R. I., and W. H. Locke of Cranford, N. J., for the affirmative and C. R. Lane, '12 of New York, and P. H. Robinson, '12 of New Haven, Conn., for the negative.

The Phillips Exeter students had the opportunity of hearing the Rev. Samuel A. Elliott, president of the American Unitarian Association, preach at the chapel in the morning, as the regular academy preacher, and he was also a speaker at the meeting of the Christian Fraternity in the evening. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock Prof. Frank W. Cushman of the faculty led the meeting at the West End Hall.

Exeter is soon to be represented by the visiting schoolboys to the English schools next season. This visit will be made as the return visit of a party of English school boys who visited this country several years ago and paid visits to the leading preparatory schools in America. The party will sail from this country June 26, of next year, and will go direct to Glasgow. While in Europe the boys will be the guests of Eton, Rugby, Harrow, and Winchester, and they will also visit Oxford and Cambridge.

It has been decided to limit each school to six boys and already there is a waiting list at many of the schools. Apart from visiting the English schools the party will also visit the places of interest on the other side of the ocean. The Exeter party which includes six, as will the schools, will be in charge of M. B. Perkins of the faculty. Mr. Perkins is a former Dartmouth man. Members of about 30 schools will participate in the tour. The preliminary lists of the leading schools which now have representatives in Andover, Abbott, Hopkins, Groton, Penn Charter, Haverford, Gilman, Germantown, Nichols University, National Cathedral, Riverview and St. Andrews.

GAS, SOURNESS AND INDIGESTION VANISH

As Soon as "Pape's Diapiesin" Gets in Stomach all Distress is Gone

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order. Really does overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn, and sourness in five minutes—just—just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas, and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its truly astonishing—almost marvelous—and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty cent case of Pape's Diapiesin will give you a hundred dollars worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

Its worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home, should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It is the quickest, surest, and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

EFFECT OF FINDING.

Official Statement Issued by the New York and New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—The effect of the finding of the arbitration board upon the wages of the engineers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company is indicated by the following official statement issued today by the board:

"On the New Haven road the rate named in the telegraphic report of the award is 10 cents a day higher than now paid in freight and 15 cents a day higher than now paid in passenger. Coupled with the commission's award, however, is a change in the overtime, making the overtime rate of the award less than now paid on the New Haven. In switching service the rate named in the award is the same as now paid on the New Haven.

"Roughly, on the New Haven the increase asked for by the engineers would have amounted to probably $250,000 a year or 15 per cent. Without attempting to make any real calculation of the per cent. of increase, if any, under the award, it is thought it will vary from 2 per cent. increase of the freight to possibly a little more in the case of passenger."

UNTIL DEATH CALLED

English Priests Passed Through Storm of Persecution.

Secret Places Where They Were Forced to Remain in Hiding Are Still Being Found in Homes Through Britain.

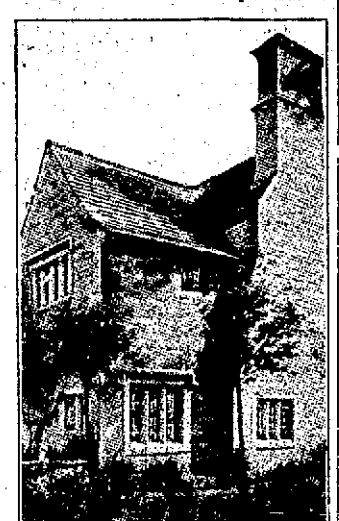

London, England.—For a hundred and fifty years or so after the reformation Roman Catholic priests were relentlessly persecuted, and if discovered in the performance of the rites of his religion a priest was put to death. But in spite of that there were during those times many priests in England who considered it their duty to brave death rather than cease to do what they considered their duty.

After the reformation many priests were concealed in the country houses of the Catholic nobility and gentry. Their hiding places were unknown to all except the master and mistress of the house and possibly to one or two old servants. As a rule, the priests did not stay for long in the priest hole at any one place, but a certain Father Blackball spent many years thus concealed in the house of the Viscountess Melgum in Scotland.

There are many old houses which still boast priest holes. There is one in an old manor in East Sussex, which contains a good example of such a chamber. Artfully contrived among the huge chimney stacks in the roof is a small room, perhaps twelve feet in length and six in breadth. Until it was broken into a few years ago no one living knew of its existence for the hidden stairway which led up to it, through the ceiling had rotted away and been covered in again, and the little room itself was almost hermetically sealed with the yellow straw plaster, which was the best material known to plasterers of former times.

Child and wretched must the priest have found it, the daylight visible only through a few small chinks in the roof, the wind penetrating through the tiles and beneath the drafty eaves. At night he had the bats for company the hard boards, with maybe an armful of straw for a couch, and the fear of capture ever looming large before him.

Of houses famous for their priest holes, perhaps the most renowned is Hendlip house, some four miles from Worcester, and said to have been built in the reign of Elizabeth by John Abingdon and a devoted partisan of Gable End of Hendlip House.

Mary, Queen of Scots. Thomas Abingdon, son of the builder, took great pains to make the house a safe hiding place, and hardly a room in the mansion was there but could be entered secretly. For several weeks in 1607 Father Garnet, who later paid the penalty of having known of the gunpowder plot, was hidden at Hendlip.

The government was made aware of his knowledge of the plot by the confession of one Catesby, Bates' servant. Suspicion having fallen on Hendlip, as the priest's place of concealment, Sir Henry Bromley was sent thither with instructions which show that the government had some experience in the finding of hidden holes.

The house was searched and searched again from top to bottom but Sir Henry could discover nothing but some scholarly books. Mr. and Mrs. Abingdon, of course, denied any knowledge of Father Garnet. Four days after beginning the search two men, half dead with hunger, gave themselves up, but they proved to be servants. Several days passed, and the searchers were in despair, when the confession of another conspirator condemned to die made it certain that a priest lay concealed at Hendlip house. When ten days had passed Father Garnet surrendered and with him a Jesuit named Hall. Lack of fresh air had forced them from their hiding place, not lack of food, for we are told "they had nutritive drinks passed to them by a rod, through a little hole in the chimney, that backed another chimney, into a woman's chamber." They could hardly move in their hiding place. Their limbs were much swollen.

LIKE SO MANY GREAT MEN

Napoleon's Handwriting So Bad That He Himself Was Unable to Decipher It.

"As showing Bonaparte's carelessness as to correctness in writing and spelling, Las Cases says: 'One day he said to me: 'You do not write orthographically, do you? At least, I suppose you do not; for a man occupied with public or other important business—a minister, for instance—cannot and need not attend to orthography. His ideas must flow faster than his hand can trace them; he has only time to place his points; he must put his words in letters, and phrases in words;—and let the scribes make it out afterward.'"

"He indeed left a great deal for the copyists to do; he was their torment; his handwriting actually resembled hieroglyphics, and he often could not decipher it himself. My son was one day reading to him a chapter of the campaign of Italy; on a sudden he stopped short, unable to make out the writing."

"That little blockhead," said the emperor, "cannot read his own handwriting."

"It's not mine, sire."

"And whose, then?"

"Your majesty's."

"How so, you little rogue? Do you mean to insult me?"

"The emperor took the manuscript, tried a long while to read it, and at last threw it down, saying: 'He is right, I cannot tell myself what is written.'"

TRAINING FOR LIFE'S WORK

Adoption of Ruskin's Views Would Mean the Making of This Into a Different World.

As to the distribution of the hard work, none of us, or very few of us, do either hard or soft work because we think we ought, but because we have chanced to fall into the way of it and cannot help ourselves. Now, nobody does anything well that they cannot help doing; work is only done well when it is done with a will. And no man has a thoroughly sound will unless he knows he is doing what he should and is in his place.

And, depend upon it, all work must be done at last, not in a disorderly, scrambling, dogged way, but in an ordered, soldierly, human way—a lawful way. Men are enlisted for the labor that kills—the labor of war; they are counted, trained, fed, dressed and praised for that. Let them be enlisted also for the labor that feeds; let them be counted, trained, fed, dressed, praised for that.

Teach the plow exercise as carefully as you do the sword exercise, and let the officers of troops of life be held as much gentlemen as the officers of troops of death, and all is done. But neither this nor any other right thing can be accomplished—you can't even see your way to it—unless first of all both servant and master are resolved that come what will of it, they will do each other justice.—Ruskin.

Step by Step.

To follow the course of any measure undertaken for the good of the children is to see how the sense of civic obligation deepens and widens, becomes more intimate and personal, as the child is recognized by the state as a possession of value. The compulsory education law is much to the point. The state said the child shall have education. That edict brought hungry children to school. Then the state had to begin to see to it that the child, made to come to school, was in fit physical condition to learn. Forthwith opened out a far-reaching state paternalism that must follow the child from the school back to the home, and eventually concern itself with making the home a proper one. Visiting nurse, school doctor, and school lunch are the natural sequelae of the compulsory educational law, and even more nearly, it would seem, we approach the plan of reimbursing the needy family for the child loaned to the state during the educational period.

Guanaco Unique.

I have seen the Indian guanaco-skin capes (cloaks) sold by the fur dealers of Punta Arenas, but this was my first glimpse of the animal itself, many thousands of which I saw later during my expeditions through Tierra del Fuego and Patagonia. "You are a queer animal, indeed," apostrophized an Argentine Lieutenant as he and Captain Masters once viewed a solitary guanaco. "You have the neck of a horse, the wool of a sheep, the neck of a camel, the feet of a deer and the swiftness of the devil." Yet without a graceful animal and at a distance not unlike red deer, though larger, Charles Wellington Furlong in Outing.

Strange Guests at St. Bernard.

An enormous flock of swallows was overtaken by a heavy snowstorm near the famous Hospice of St. Bernard in the Alps last winter. When the good monks saw the birds, they opened the doors and windows of their building that the little feathered strangers might have shelter.

All the rooms were crowded with them, thousands remaining until sunrise. The next day proved fine and the guests pursued their way toward Italy. "This is very pleasant to learn, but it saddens one to know that a vast number of less fortunate birds failed to reach the Hospice and were found dead in the snow by the tenderhearted brothers."

STORM DOES SOME DAMAGE

A northeaster which broke on Sunday noon, developed into a good sized storm before midnight. There was a gale of wind blowing and considerable rain fell. More or less damage was done to trees, and blinds and windows suffered. A tree was blown down in the garden of the Langdon mansion on Pleasant street, and in various parts of the city damage was reported. The limb of a large tree on Islington street fell, blocking the sidewalk. The telephone and electric light company had all kinds of trouble and many of the street lights were out.

Off the coast the storm was very severe and it is kicking up a nasty sea outside.

STATE GRANGE MEETING.

Thirty-Ninth Annual Session Takes Place at Nashua.

The thirty-ninth annual session of the New Hampshire state grange will be held in Nashua, Dec. 17, 18 and 19, 1912, and, considering the fact that this is the first meeting of the kind in that city, it promises to be one of the largest and most interesting ever held during the forty successful and prosperous years of the grange's existence in the Granite state. As many of the halls were either inadequate or not centrally located, Nashua has kindly placed at the disposal of the executive committee the beautiful Colonial theatre which is conveniently located as regards train or trolley.

At the public meeting Tuesday evening there will be an address of welcome by the mayor of the city, a response by the state master, addresses by President Fairchild of the Agricultural college, Professor Morrison of the department of public instruction and National Secretary Freeman of Ohio. Hazel Dell Chandler of Manchester will give readings and there will be vocal and instrumental music.

There will be a conference of lecturers for 1913 at the K. P. hall Wednesday forenoon, and the work of the fourth degree will be exemplified in the afternoon. The sixth degree will be conferred in the evening and this will be the last opportunity to be prepared or receiving the seventh degree at the annual grange to be held in Manchester next November, there will be a record-breaking class.

Rooms and board may be engaged of C. C. Osmond, secretary of the Nashua board of trade, 98 Main street. There will be a branch postoffice at the Colonial theatre where mail will be delivered that is directed in care of the state grange, and parcels and clothing may be cared for in the checking room.

Nashua grange choir will furnish music during the closed sessions and nothing will be left undone by the citizens of Nashua that will enhance the comfort and enjoyment of the visitors.

Prisoner Does Some Traveling

Former Pay Clerk Charles Gibbons of the California, who deserted that ship over a year ago, taking with him over $3000 in government funds, must serve a two years term in San Quentin, but he at least, has the satisfaction, if satisfaction it be, of doing some traveling in the meantime. Arrested in the East he was brought to Mare Island and sent from there to the California, then in the waters of the Philippines for trial by court martial. He was found guilty and was being brought on the flagship for commitment to San Quentin, when the trouble in Nicaragua necessitated the California being sent south and on her went Gibbons.

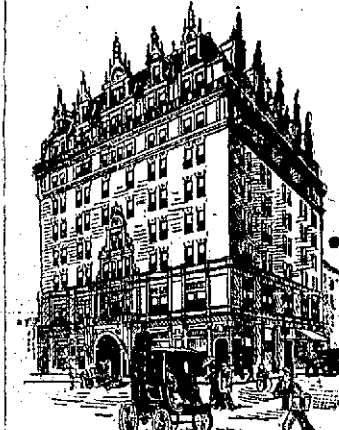

Now he is said to be en route for Mare Island on the Glacier, and unless another revolution breaks out, or something unforeseen happens to the ship, it is probable that he will soon be serving his sentence.

The first big ball of the season will be held on Thanksgiving eve at Freeman's Hall by the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's Association. A good time is promised all who attend.

AT THE DEAD LETTER OFFICE

8566 Articles to the Value of $13,000 to Be Sold.

There is going to be a sale in the dead letter office at Washington and Uncle Sam will be the auctioneer on Dec. 16. The sale will be a big one as there are 8566 articles at an estimated value of $13,000 to get rid of.

Postmaster General Hitchcock takes his opportunity to call attention to the fact that the presence of these articles at the division of dead letters is due to carelessness on the part of the senders. Nearly half of the catalogued items were found loose in the mails, having escaped from their wrappers. Of 482 pieces of valuable jewelry, 215 were received without wrapper or any indication of ownership.

Thirty-seven per cent. of the valuable printed matter was received without any address whatever.

Lost matter that can be identified is delivered to applicants by postmasters at division headquarters of the railway mail service on receipt of applications and on recommendation from the inspection service, but more than 55,000 such articles are sent to the division of dead letters annually. Many of these articles are unsalable or of such small value that they are sold only as junk or as "cheap jewelry."

With the near approach of the opening of the parcel post service, Mr. Hitchcock reminds the public of the necessity of wrapping packages securely and addressing them properly, with return card, considering that if carelessness causes so many losses under the present rates for fourth class matter, with a four-pound limit, the cheaper rate of the parcel post, with a limit increased to eleven pounds, will result in increased losses unless shippers take proper care in dispatching packages.

BUTTON IN LUNG

X-Ray Disclosed Cause of Supposed Case of Bronchitis

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 25.—When a supposed case of bronchial trouble with which William Tremblay was thought to be afflicted failed to respond to the usual treatment, physicians at a local hospital took an X-ray photograph and discovered a collar button lodged in Tremblay's lung. He swallowed the button sixteen years ago and supposed that it had gone into his stomach, giving the matter no further thought. Because of the peculiar position that it occupies it is believed that it will be impossible to remove the obstruction by means of a surgical operation.

CLAIMS MOTHER KIDNAPPED HER CHILD

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Mabel White of this city, divorced wife of James White at Cleveland, has been summoned into court tomorrow on habeas corpus proceedings instigated by the attorneys of her husband, to show cause why she should not deliver to him their 4-year old daughter, Shirley B. White whom the husband alleges, she, with the help of two men, kidnapped from Cleveland on Dec. 15.

The couple separated two and a half years ago and the husband had retained the custody of the child. At the January term of the Hillsboro county superior court, Mr. White was granted a decree, his wife waiving the custody of the child.

According to Mr. White's story, on the evening of Nov. 12, he received a telephone message from his wife at an apartment house, of which he is manager in Cleveland, requesting that he take the child to 5219 Prospect street that she might see the little one. Mr. White alleges that after the child had been dressed for the return journey, two men entered and overpowered him, and that Mrs. White disappeared with the child, through a rear door and went away in an automobile.

Mrs. White who is employed in one of the factories of the W. H. McMillan shoe company, has been stopping at the Maple street home of her father, Michael Hawkins, a foreman in the street and park department. To the newspapersmen last night Mr. Hawkins admitted that his daughter had the child.

POLICE NEWS

The police on Saturday night raided three places suspected of selling liquor, but did not find any evidence. One place on Charles street, another on Jefferson, and the other was in Court street.

Saturday night there were four arrests for drunkenness, all local talent. Sunday, other than the arrests for gambling, there were no other cases.

Fish can be quickly sealed if placed first in boiling water.

FUNERAL NOTICE

Died in this city on Nov. 23rd, Mr. Otis F. Haley, aged 71 years. Funeral services will be held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Richard O'Brien, 63 Mechanic street, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends invited.

HIGH AIM OF THIEVES

ROYAL CROWNS HAVE BEEN OBJECTS OF DEPREDACTIONS.

Latest to Be Recorded is an Attempt to Purloin the Now Disused Diamond That Once Belonged to Brazil's Ruler.

Robberies of royal crowns are naturally extremely rare, and the number of thefts of this sort that have taken place since Col. Blood was captured in the act of carrying off the crown of England from the Tower of London, in the reign of Charles II., may be counted on the fingers of one hand.

Recently the imperial crown of Brazil was stolen from the Chateau d'Eu, in Normandy, only a few miles from Dieppe. Already on June 12, three of the largest diamonds of the crown were found to have been pried out and to have disappeared, along with three costly rings, belonging to the Countess d'Eu. The services of the police and of private detective agencies had been called into action by the royal occupants of the chateau, but without avail.

On August 17 a large dinner party was in progress at the Chateau d'Eu, when suddenly the dogs outside began to bark violently. Prince Louis of Orleans Braganza, taking it for granted that some thief was again about—the guests at the table had just been discussing the robbery of June 12—jumped from his chair, and, running through the gunroom, seized a rifle, which he did not even take time to load, and rushed into the grounds. In a few minutes he found, held at bay by the dogs in a thicket, a man at whom he pointed his gun. The fellow offered no resistance, although on being seized and searched by the people who rushed out after the prince it was found that the intruder was armed with two revolvers and a long knife, while in his waistcoat pocket were the three diamonds missing from the crown and one of the rings.

Further search revealed in the shrubbery where he had been crouching a bundle containing the imperial crown itself and the jeweled coronet which the Brazilian crown prince had worn on the state occasions. The burglar was afterward ascertained to be a former servant of the chateau named Louis Neuten, who had decided to turn his knowledge of the interior and fittings of the place to good account.

Attention has thus been drawn to the owner of the endangered imperial gems, namely, the Countess of Eu, ex-Crown Princess of Brazil, and only child of the late Dom Pedro, Brazil's last emperor, who was deposed in 1889.

Sixty-six years old, very tall and imposing, with large, bright eyes and most unaffected in manner, the ex-crown princess has inherited much of her father's looks and character. Like him, she lives a life of mingled stateliness and simplicity. Born at Rio de Janeiro and married there in 1864 to Prince Gaston, son of the late Duc de Nemours and grandson of King Louis Philippe of France, she repeatedly acted as regent of Brazil during her father's absence in Europe and the United States, and it was as such that it fell to her lot to sign the decree abolishing for all time negro slavery in his dominions.

Decay of Handwriting.
The decay of handwriting was the subject of a paper by a correspondent recently in the London "Times." "The steel pen," he wrote, "was one factor in altering the style and legibility of writing, and the fountain pen, in some of its varieties, has provided to be a still more harmful machine. Typing certainly secures legibility, but that is not writing, and it is doing much to discourage the practice of calligraphy."

"There is good reason to believe that neat writing is neither thought nor even encouraged in our great secondary schools. Schoolmasters appear to accept any kind of bad writing. The average boy or girl now takes little or no pains to form letters. In other words, they do not write at all. Few parents or teachers appear to take any notice of this writing, and the letters of the last century, which were generally neat and legible, at the hands of both sexes, certainly put us to shame today."

This "laudator temporis acti" concluded by a curious prediction that posterity will have some severe comments to make on the handwriting of the twentieth century.

Gold Reports on Alaska.
The United States geological survey has just published as Bulletin 520-H a report on the mining and water supply of the Fortymile, Seventymile, Circle and Fairbanks districts, Alaska by E. A. Porter and C. E. Ellsworth. The estimated value of the combined gold production of the Fortymile and Seventymile districts for 1911 was $212,000, an increase of $12,000 over the output for 1910. Due to the success of two dredges on the headwaters of Fortymile river. The value of the gold production of the Fairbanks district in 1911 is estimated to be approximately $4,500,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 from the output for 1910, due mainly to the fact that most of the bonanzas of the camp have been worked out and the major part of the mining was confined to deposits of relatively low grade. The Circle precinct in 1911 produced gold with an estimated value of $350,000, which exceeds that of any other year since 1898. The increase was due entirely to the improved methods employed.

ANOTHER OLD TAX BILL

M. H. Bell has two souvenirs of ancient local history. The Herald of Saturday noted that Winfield L. Lord had in his possession a tax bill of 1855, showing where Ichabod Philpot, a resident of Rollingsford, paid tax collector George W. Roberts at that town the sum of $5.25. While this bill shows that there certainly was some tax rate at the time, M. H. Bell of Myrtle avenue gives his friend one better on old tax bills. He has one under date of Sept. 27, 1844, issued by Oliver W. Penhallow, collector to William G. Bell, his late uncle. Another relic in this line which he cherishes is a bill from the Hampshire Gazette and Republican Union, under date of January 1, 1847, issued by William P. Hill, for the paper from the above dated date to March 31, 1847, for $1.75.

GAMBLERS ARRESTED IN SUNDAY RAIDS

Six Greeks in Poker Game Taken on Ladd Street--Crap Shooters Caught in City Yard.

The police on Sunday made two gambling raids and in both cases made arrests.

In the forenoon, Deputy Hurley with officer Shannon jumped a bunch who were shooting craps in the city yard, but the crowd saw the officers in time for all but one to get away. This was P. W. Fiske, a sailor, there were five others and the police know the most of them.

In the afternoon Deputy Hurley, and officers Shannon and Murphy, raided a house on Ladd street and arrested six men, all Greeks, and Angelo Constantinos, who is charged with maintaining a gambling place. The officers found the men engaged in a game of poker, and they were caught with the goods.

Cases like that of the forenoon raid have been going on for some time, but they have been very difficult for the police to get the necessary evidence. There is a regular gang of crap shooters about the city and they play about every Sunday, but never twice in the same location. A pair of dice is all that is necessary for equipment, and with this they can gather in an open field, and be in a position to see anybody approaching. Crap shooting is so prevalent about the city among young fellows, that even the boys are playing, and the police but recently caught four or five school boys engaged in the game.

The Herald Hears

That a young couple of this city announced to be married last Easter are still single.

That the prospective groom is ready anytime but his lady friend refuses to be tied up.

That a former resident of North Hampton who wears a red shirt in the ranks of the Veteran Firemen certainly made a hit in his home town on the night of the democratic celebration.

That his appearance before the footlights as a comedian took the people of the old town by storm.

That when he goes back to his native town in the future they will have a band to meet him and plenty of red fire.

That the Knights of Columbus are now in their new home on Islington street.

That the moving of the Call house to the hospital grounds has given the telephone men plenty of work on the lines on Jenkins avenue.

That the Gimlet Club want to meet the Emmets in a bowling match.

That the police got them with the goods on Ladd street on Sunday.

That the rain spoiled a good day's work on the electric road to Greenland on Sunday.

That the tide was over many of the wharves on Sunday.

That the usual kick is on over the closing of the York Harbor and Beach railroad next month.

That the Boston & Maine has had this notice on all Portland division time tables since June.

That many still insist on calling it the Cottage hospital.
